The Virginia Erosion and Sediment Control Law (Title 10.1, Chapter 5, Article 4 of the Code of Virginia as amended) defines a land-disturbing activity as any land change which may result in soil erosion from water or wind and the movement of sediments into state waters or onto lands in Virginia, including, but not limited to, clearing, grading, excavating, transporting, and filling of land. However, there are 13 specific activities that are exempt from the definition of land-disturbing activity, and therefore, are exempt from the requirements of the Law.

Note that the appropriate regulatory authority is obligated to determine the validity of a claim of exempt status by an individual property owner. As soon as a nonexempt status is determined, the requirements of the Law shall be immediately enforced.

A digested version of these exemptions is provided in this brochure. Please refer to local ordinance or the Law for a complete, unedited copy of the exemptions.
